Shakespeare & Autism
Participate in Ohio State University Research Project Evaluating this Drama-Based Intervention

Study Details

Participants will have the opportunity to participate in 12 week one-hour sessions of the Shakespeare and Autism Drama Intervention or an alternative evidence-based social skills intervention at no cost beginning in February 2016 and ending in April 2016. Children’s skills will be measured before and after group participation to evaluate the effectiveness of this intervention. Measurements will include a short brain imaging activity looking at how the intervention might affect the parts of the brain your child uses to look at faces showing different emotions. Children will be randomly assigned to one of two groups, drama intervention or other social skills intervention. Children assigned to the other social skills intervention group will have the opportunity to participate in the drama intervention at no cost, following the conclusion of the study. One-hour intervention sessions will be held after-school at The Ohio State University Nisonger Center beginning February 2016 and ending April 2016 (sessions will not be held during OSU breaks).
