

Dates to Remember

Throughout the year there are several dates in which the Nisonger Center as well as The Ohio State University is closed and classes will not be in session. However, there are also two dates per calendar year in which there are no classes but staff will be in session. Below you will find a list of important dates where your child will not be in session.

Please use this information as a reference and let your child's teacher know if you have any questions or concerns.
